The 22nd Annual Ecumenical Carol Service of the New Norcia Benedictine Community was held on 3 January 2015. The Abbey Church was filled to capacity, with many people travelling from all over the district and from Perth for this feast of carol singing interspersed with sacred readings. We were led in this prayer and praise by the Georgian Singers who were accompanied by a regular organist to New Norcia, John Beaverstock.

The tradition of singing carols in the Christian world goes back many centuries. However, it was with Francis of Assisi’s nativity plays that people joined in the singing of carols in their native language. The word carol, or carole is a mediaeval word of French and Anglo-Norman origin. It originally meant a dance song, or singing along with dances done in a circle to welcome the new seasons of the year, and particularly the winter solstice. It later become associated with the Christian liturgical season of Christmas and was particularly popular in the 18th and 19th centuries.

On a very pleasant late summer Saturday afternoon, with a fresh and gentle breeze blowing in from the West, the proceedings at New Norcia began with many Christmas greetings at a gathering for afternoon tea in the monastery palour. We then made our way to the Abbey Church where the service began at 5pm. The procession into the Church was led by the choristers followed by the readers, monastic community and Canon Kathy Barrett-Leonard and Abbot John Herbert osb, who together, presided over the ceremony.

The voices of the Georgian Singers led us through a feast of festive Christmas carols, and performed some not-so familiar carols including the delightfully lilting harmonies of Myn lyking, a 15th century carol, and my personal favourite Latin Carol, the stirring and dramatic, 16th century, Gaudate. Our hearts were lifted to praise with the soaring melodies and our minds pondered the mystery of this wonderful festive season in a series of Gospel readings for the feast. We pray that the Peace of Christ’s coming will reign in our World this year as we welcome the Light who is life for all.

New Norcia warmly welcomes Coralea A’Court to the senior management team at New Norcia as the HR Manager. I caught up with Coralea, managed to bribe a photograph and asked her a few questions!

Coralea started life in Corrigin on a Wheat and Sheep farm.

How did you begin your HR Journey?
My journey in the field of HR evolved over time. I started in the training field working for the Australian Medical Association. I also spent time working with the disadvantaged and homeless in Northbridge, a difficult job which gave me valuable insight into human nature.

What in your view is the role of HR in a business?
My approach to HR is quite unique, I view people/employees as the most valuable attribute that a business has. I believe in long term retention of staff, mutual respect and working with managers to get the best out of the staff employed. Staff are, and should be, the biggest investment that a workplace makes.

For the past few years I worked in the Mining and Resources sector – it was very fast paced, fun and frantic. An extremely competitive sector, it was all about cost cutting, being competitive in the market and getting the next contract. It was very normal to work a sixty hour week and have a turnover of up to 50 employees per month.

Where did you work before NN?
It is lovely to work here. New Norcia is not totally commercially driven, it has the monastic ethos as its base, meaning that at New Norcia I will have the opportunity to help retain and develop long term employees. I hope to have more time to work on the more compassionate side of HR.

What are your passions and hobbies other than HR?
I have never had a lot of time for other pursuits having worked in a very busy environment, but family, my grandchildren and gardening are all very important to me.

Central Catering Chef Sherelle Ives is our newest recruit, in charge of creating delicious dishes for the Monastery, the Guesthouse and the School camps. She said she fell into cooking after volunteering at her son’s school canteen, eventually taking the canteen over. After a stint in the bustle of Fremantle’s “Benny’s Bar and Cafe” Sherelle, who had always dreamt of working by the ocean, got a job overseas.....on Rottnest Island .....where she stayed for the next thirteen years. She considers cooking a passion and a job. Her philosophy? Home cooked meals prepared with love and soul... this means making most things from scratch...her kitchen is always filled with the sound and aromas of stock or sauces bubbling away happily.

One of Sherelle’s sayings; “life is not a recipe, you have to adapt” seems to fit perfectly with life in New Norcia......country life is definitely like that, as the past few weeks of stormy weather, frightening thunder and the inevitable black outs have reminded us! Her hobbies indicate an affinity with the town too....history, poetry and writing. Welcome Sherelle, we hope you enjoy New Norcia.

My Journey to the Monastery

My Journey to New Norcia has taken some time. I’m from Fremantle and I’m the seventh child, with two sisters, and five brothers. I have a degree in Commerce and another in Business Information Systems. I have worked as a Lecturer at Curtin University teaching Computer Programming and at the Department of Veterans’ Affairs. However, neither studies nor career were ever very fulfilling – something was missing. I have often felt that I wasn’t supposed to be where I found myself.

Even as a child I was always dragging Mum into various Catholic churches around Fremantle. My parents were non-religious and, as such, I was only recently baptised and confirmed about 4 years ago, in the Subiaco parish, under the RCIA programme. After my Baptism, I remember feeling that a great burden had been lifted off my shoulders. But what shall I do from here on?

I decided that a pilgrimage would be a good beginning in exploring my faith and so I thought to do something small at first, and then if my interest held, something bigger such as the Camino Del Santiago. I chose initially to walk the local Camino Salvado, from Subiaco to New Norcia. I honestly started out thinking that this would be some preparation for walking other great trails, and instead I discovered a bit about both the physicality, and the spirituality, of being a pilgrim.

A lot of the Psalms and Gospels talk about pilgrimage, but unless one takes action, it can remain as just words on a page. While walking the trail I was quickly forced to focus on anything but my blisters, “Oh God come to my aid, Oh Lord make haste to help us.” Being forced to focus on anything but my worldly aches and pains, I had time to wonder about God, and my place in world. Like the lyrics from a song - What am I? Who am I? What will I be? Where am I going? and What will I see?

All of this was taking place within the wonderful, rural, scenery of the Chittering valley. Occasional landmarks such as a stone walled well built for Salvado, or a particularly beautiful spider orchid and other wildflowers, would occasionally interrupt my thoughts, and remind me that I was walking in very ancient land, that it had a history of deprivation and hardship, but, was in itself, still beautiful.

Oh, and I kept a lookout for snakes.

Eventually on my journey, the modern age that we live in, made itself felt, with a distant vista of the ESA satellite station. With that view arose the realisation that this journey’s end was very near.

On entering the town, our arrival was announced by the ringing of the church bells and then being welcomed by the Abbot in the church. I realised that pilgrimage is really about the journey and not really about arriving at your destination. For me the pilgrimage was a time of deep reflection and listening to God. New Norcia was indeed, a final destination, although one that took a further four years of wandering, in order for me to eventually arrive and begin my novitiate.

From behind the Monastery walls.....In January, the monks spent ten delightful days relaxing by the cool waters of Safety Bay- a wonderful change of scenery, air and pace from the monastic life. The St. John of God Sisters, at their seaside retreat centre, provided their customary warm hospitality to the holidaying brothers. The annual vacation time allowed the monks to have a much needed catch up with some rest and recreation, and a break from the rigours of the monastic timetable. The brothers took advantage of the clear and shark-free waters of the bay to do some swimming, and took long walks along the scenic coast, where the refreshing breezes were a nice change from the summer heat of New Norcia. Some of the monks undertook a train tour to explore the various Perth lines. Needless to say, it was also a time for reading and prayer, and to relate as a community in a less formal environment. The monks returned to New Norcia, recharged and revitalized, looking forward to another year rich in the search for God, the living of communal life, and making welcome our guests.

Mandorla Retrospective 1985 – 2014

March 2015 to December 2015

This special 2015 exhibition at the New Norcia Museum and Art Gallery features the 18 winners of the Mandorla Art Award for Religious Art together with 22 Mandorla entries from the Benedictine Community’s own collection.

The Mandorla Art Award is Australia’s most significant prize for Christian art based on a biblical theme. For each Award a passage is chosen from the scriptures, and artists are invited to respond in two or three dimensional media or in video format. Over the past 30 years the Award has attracted entries from some of Australia’s leading contemporary artists.

In 2010, St John of God Health Care became the Award’s principal sponsor. The Anglican, Catholic and Uniting Churches and the Benedictine Community of New Norcia have traditionally funded the supporting prizes. In 2014 first prize was $25,000.

Since the Award’s inception in 1985, the Benedictine Community has worked closely with the Mandorla Art Committee. In its early years the exhibition was shown exclusively at the New Norcia Museum and Art Gallery but it is now Perth based, with a special finalists’ exhibition touring to New Norcia. The Award is acquisitive with the winning work remaining at New Norcia as part of the Mandorla collection for incorporation in the Museum and Art Gallery’s ongoing exhibitions.

The New Norcia Museum and Art Gallery is delighted to mount this first Mandorla Retrospective. The exhibition opens in March 2015 and will be on show till the end of the year.

Historic document returns to New Norcia
Late last month, I drove over to Toodyay to collect an old New Norcia police daily incident book from our former colleague and Collections Manager, Margie Eberle; Margie is now the Heritage Officer for Toodyay. In December, a member of the public donated the book to Toodyay because it had several references to Newcastle (Toodyay’s old name) but closer inspection by Margie revealed that the book was originally the record of daily incidents recorded by the police officers stationed at New Norcia between 1878 and 1881. Margie decided the book should be in our Archives and contacted the previous owner to see if that was acceptable to him, which it was.

The Police Daily Incident book covers the period 17th September 1878 to 15th October 1881 and was written up principally by PC Troy, then by PC Monger. It is a hardbound book with the marbling that was common to books of that era and measures 330 x 220 mm (or 13” x 8¾” to give its original intended measurements) and has about 450 pages.

In those pages reside the most wonderful accounts of the darker side of life at New Norcia over a period of four years – tales of murder, theft, mystery and intrigue. As an example, on 5th December 1878, murder most foul took place at Canterbury, a house just outside New Norcia. Under the heading “Murder”, PC Troy writes:

William Jones reported at the Station at 12 midnight that James Taylor had been shot at Mr Clune’s place. PC Troy left the station at once and went to Mr Clune’s residence. At a house occupied by William Jones, PC Troy found the body of James Taylor lying dead about two yards from Jones’ door. On Taylor’s right breast there was a wound the size of half-a-crown, and a hole of corresponding size through his shirt; the front of the shirt was covered with blood and also the hands, especially the left hand. On the ground on the right side of the body there was a quantity of blood and about 18 inches from the body, on the right side, there were blood marks on the ground ......”.

PC Troy continues with his extremely exacting description for the next two or three pages, detailing who said what and who was where and eventually arrests the murderer but, sad to say, he (or she) will not be revealed until the book has been transcribed and edited.

Not even Bishop Salvado escaped the zealous PC Troy for on April 9th 1879 it is recorded that “P C Troy personally served the Right Reverend Rosendo Salvado with a summons charging him with neglecting to report that a certain flock of sheep [on] his property were infected with scab as required by Scab in Sheep Ordinance 1866, Section 8”. The Bishop was ordered to appear at the Victoria Plains Court House on the 17th to answer the charge, however the entry for the 17th states that the case was dismissed as there was “no proof that the fact came to the knowledge of the Bishop”. Salvado’s diary briefly alludes to the incident.

It is a wonderful source for material about life at that time and we are truly grateful to Margie for deciding that its rightful home was back here at New Norcia.

Finally, in other news, the books published by Abbey Press last year are starting to receive some acclaim: one reader of the Correspondence of Léandre Fonteinne which was translated from French by Peter Gilet, our first Abbot Placid Scholar, wrote to say “I have just finished reading "The Correspondence of Léandre Fonteinne", which I have thoroughly enjoyed. ... This is a huge contribution by Peter Gilet ... to Australian history - I can’t think of a single history, non-fiction, book that I have had great difficulty in putting down each night!” Well done, Peter!

ABOUT TOWN.....News from the Grounds and Maintenance department
St Ildephonsus, St Gertrude’s and Administration Building

December and January have been busy for New Norcia Services and consultants The Buchan Group Architects, ETC Electrical Engineering, Williams Electrical, PWI Fire and Interactive Services. Over the past couple of months the above consultants, contractors and our staff have been involved in the upgrading of emergency lighting and fire detection in St Gertrude’s, St Ildephonsus’ and the Administration building. The work involved demolition of partitions, lifting carpets, floor boards and installing new cabling under the floors and in the roof spaces.

Once the upgrades are completed the two Colleges and the Administration building will then comply with the relevant Australian Standards.

Later in 2015 the New Norcia Hotel will undergo a similar upgrade to meet the relevant Australian Standards.

After all the work had finished the massive cleanup process began, in true New Norcia style so many people lent a hand, even the monks weren’t let off the hook and spent a day helping the cleaning team! Pictured left are some of the team, who look remarkably fresh in this photo despite having done well over a 100 hours of cleaning between them in the last five days, every cornice, light, ceiling and wall have been beaten into submission, the first school camp arrives tomorrow!

Thank you to everyone for all their hard work.

New Norcia Road House

The Road House kitchen has been renovated. Jako Industries installed a new extraction system, electrical work was done by Star Electrical and new gas cooking appliances were installed by N&M Russell Plumbing.

Planned Projects 2015

The next project to start is the refurbishing of the Northern Cloister in the Monastery. The work involves covering the existing walls with Gyprock, new plumbing fixtures, electrical fittings, painting and new carpets. This work is being undertaken by sub contractors and New Norcia Services maintenance team.

2014/2015 - FRIENDS SPECIAL PROJECT - The Old Convent upgrade

This has been progressing well; the wooden floors are looking amazing after being renovated by Rural and Metro Floor Sanding Services from Moora.

To date, $20,000.00 of the $60,000.00 needed for this important project has been raised. This paid for the extensive work needed to rectify the rising and falling damp in the Old Convent. Because this project has been deemed important by the community, they have funded the rest of the work so far; the dust free sealing of the rooms, the electricity upgrade, the painting of the rooms, the new block out blinds, the renovation of the floors and the upgrade of the water services. We would like to extend this project for the rest of 2015 to try and raise the rest of the amount needed to finish the project and install correct storage facilities for one of the largest and most significant collections of textiles in Australia.

Please donate to this worthy cause.
New Norcia Services staff is completing daily maintenance, painting staff houses, preparing garden beds, maintaining the reticulation and ensuring the daily care of the swimming pool.

Return of restored Chalice Veil

The final textile to be restored under the Lotteries Bicentennial Grant has been returned to the monastic community of New Norcia, with a presentation and explanation of techniques developed by textile Conservator Rinske Carr and Dr Ian McLeod, Executive Director of Fremantle's Maritime Museum. The Chalice Veil will join the Cope, Chasuble and Mitre to create a substantial set of restored early vestments and altar accoutrements extremely rare in Australia's history. The grant has allowed this significant piece to be restored and put on display in the New Norcia Museum & Art Gallery.

The Chalice Veil is believed to date from 1640, with gold, silver and dyed silk thread embroidery on a square of silk fabric, edged with gold-thread bobbin lace. Thought to be made in Holland, the Chalice Cloth may have eventually become part of the collection of Queen Isabella II of Spain, Bishop Salvado's patron. It is thought these antique vestments were gifted to the new mission in Western Australia, and the signs of wear, from sweat to red dust, show that they were employed for special occasions both in and outdoors at New Norcia.

Close inspection, testing and restoration of the materials used, with research into the flora and fauna depicted, give us many clues to the great historic events of those times. Dr McLeod pointed out to the assembly of monks the glittering nature of some stitched silvery shapes, and explained the high level of platinum there. Referring to present research being undertaken by a PhD candidate at UWA into the metal content of shipwreck coins, Dr McLeod related the history of a pirating venture by the Dutch, attacking the Spanish fleet which was returning to Europe laden with gold, silver and treasures from the South American 'new world'. This foray injected billions into the Dutch economy, and also introduced this rare metal into the makeup of European silver, it not occurring there previously. This pirated cargo may be the bright element of the Chalice Veil embroidery.

This is an exquisite work, with exotic birds, insects and flowers entwined around the hovering central motif of the Holy Spirit. It tells of new lands, empires and exploration, while the extraordinary complexity and intricacy of the embroidery expresses the height of a sophisticated textile tradition. The restored Chalice Veil now clearly celebrates the beauty of the natural world, both as evidence of God's creation, and meshed with the symbolic ritual and transmutation of the mass.

The conservation team of Rinske Carr and Dr Ian McLeod are to be commended and thanked for their efforts, with their findings being published in academic papers and at recent conferences. Thanks also to Lottery West for facilitating the preservation, renewal and display of this rare work of art. The Chalice Veil, the Chasuble and the Mitre, all dated to the 17th and 18th centuries, are on display this month in the New Norcia Museum and Art Gallery.

NEWS FROM THE ABBEY PRESS – NEW TREASURES FOUND.

During our latest sortie into The Abbey Press we continued the job of tidying and identifying some of the typefaces ad also proofing some of them. We started with the rarest Victorian founts – the earliest was designed in 1845 – and printed full alphabet specimens of these. It is hoped these pages will eventually be made up into a book so we can see what we have. During this process we came across another typeface we did not know we had, a 36-point Outline face cast by the British typefounder John Haddon, which had been stored alongside a different fount.

New type face found – 36 point Outline, cast by John Haddon, c. 1900

Along with the collection of rare typefaces, there is also a collection of decorative borders. These were completely jumbled and it has taken many hours of sorting, proofing, and sometimes being able to identify these. Like the type faces many of these were cast in the 19th century, and they have been cast by typefounders in Australia as well as in Europe, UK and the USA. Although it might seem as though the major work of moving things from A to B has been done there is still plenty to do, to record this important collection.
